

DARED VESUVIUS IN ASCENT TO CRATER BRINK

Prof. Mattucci, Who Risked
Life, Declares Worst of Eruption Over.

NAPLES, April 12.—All the news received here to-day was encouraging. For the first time since Tuesday the sun is shining all over Naples, and although above the city the usual gray cloud is discernible the fall of ashes has almost entirely ceased.

Prof. Mattucci to-day climbed up Vesuvius to a point a long way above the Observatory, at the imminent risk of his life, and ascertained that unless the conditions change radically there will be no further discharge of lava at present. He added that it was impossible to determine the quantity of sand in the crater, but as the cone had diminished considerably in height and the showers of stones thrown out had been transformed into ashes, he believed the end of the disturbance was near.

Still Some Danger.

Several men have braved the terrors of the wild wastes of lava about the Royal Observatory on Mount Vesuvius. One of them returned here this morning and gave an account of a most interesting conversation which he had with Prof. Mattucci, director of the observatory, who was in a very hopeful mood when the visitor left him. The Professor said:

"Very little is known of the volcanic forces, so one can never safely predict what is going to happen. But I think I can with some confidence express the hope, based on my experience here, that the explosive period of the eruption has passed. It is impossible to make a positive statement to this effect, but the probabilities point to a quietening down of the volcano."

"This, however, does not mean that its activity will entirely cease. Until the crater definitely assumes its new shape, that is to say when the ridges have been smoothed down, there is a possibility of further disturbances."

"For the present the light wind blowing will in all probability carry the ashes in a direction which will leave Naples free from further annoyance of this nature, and as it is the ill wind is blowing good to other places, for ashes are the best fertilizer it is possible to use. It is merely a question just now of having too much of a good thing."

5,000 Refugees in Naples.

Prof. Mattucci is not the only person who regards the situation as having improved. King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena returned to Rome to-day, Premier Sonnino and Finance Minister Sallandra, who have been supervising the relief measures, are also leaving Naples for the capital.

Nearly 5,000 refugees are already housed here, and the number is rapidly increasing. In fact, all the buildings available for the accommodation of the fugitives are crowded, and if many more people seek shelter here it will be necessary to place them in army tents. The municipal and military authorities have already taken steps to accommodate a large number of people in this manner.

The crowding of refugees into Naples has resulted in the almost complete stoppage of the supply of food usually forwarded to the Vesuvian districts, and, consequently, the prices of food have risen enormously, and the lack of meat and bread especially is seriously felt in those districts.

STOP DRINKING!

Orrine Will Destroy All Desire for Whiskey or Beer—A Guaranteed Cure.

Nearly every drinking man thinks that sometime he will quit. He often swears off, but cannot resist the craving for drink, and the disease, for this is what it really is, becomes so firmly fixed that it cannot be cured without medical treatment.

A Michigan druggist, H. G. Coleman, has made a thorough study of the various cures for the liquor habit, and gives this as a result of his investigations: "Before taking the agency of Orrine I went to considerable trouble to learn about it, and became confident that it was a thoroughly honest preparation and put out by an honorable firm. I have sold it for years, and can truthfully say that my confidence in it grows stronger the more I see of its results. I believe that any man who really desires to be cured of the liquor habit can cure himself with the help of Orrine and be rid of the bad effects which the habit has upon himself and family."

Orrine is in two forms, No. 1, the secret remedy which can be given without the knowledge of the patient; No. 2, for those who take the remedy of their own free will. A cure is absolutely guaranteed with either form of treatment. Write for free pamphlet on the cure of alcoholism to the Orrine Co., Washington, D. C. In every box is a registered guarantee which entitles you to a refund of your money if Orrine fails to effect a cure. The price of either form is $1 a box.

He had tried to cut the metal out of the beer pipes, but the fluid started over him and he bathed in it until he was "soaked" inside and out. He had to be carried to the station house and dried out for arraignment.
